

This hymn may be sung to a D.S.M. tune e.g.

"Ich halte treulich still" if the word "Rejoice" is sung twice

Praise God! With glad refrain let cheerful voices ring!
 We lift our music's joyful strain to Christ our Lord and King.
Rejoice to hear the organ's swelling chord!
Sing alleluia! Praise Him!
Give thanks to Christ our Lord.

We thank you, Lord, for deeds of gifted craftsmen's time,
 Who wrought from metal, wood and reed, this instrument sublime.
Rejoice to hear the organ's swelling chord!
Sing alleluia! Praise Him!
Give thanks to Christ our Lord.

We thank you, Lord, who fired composers old and new
 To bring great music forth, inspired by love, dear Lord, of you.
Rejoice to hear the organ's swelling chord!
Sing alleluia! Praise Him!
Give thanks to Christ our Lord.

We thank you for the hand that works the organ's keys,
 To bid its noble sound expand in stirring strains that please.
Rejoice to hear the organ's swelling chord!
Sing alleluia! Praise Him!
Give thanks to Christ our Lord.

As diapasons raise their anthem clear and true,
 This instrument, in humble praise, we dedicate to you.
Rejoice to hear the organ's swelling chord!
Sing alleluia! Praise Him!
Give thanks to Christ our Lord.
